Risks of super

Super is designed to provide you with an income for your retirement. It aims to build up your retirement savings in a cost-effective way to help you achieve financial security when you retire.

However, there are also certain risks that you should be aware of. The types of risks your super may be exposed to can be broadly categorised as either general or investment risks.

General risks that may affect your super

The impact of these risks may be short or long term, depending on the conditions and circumstances that have given rise to them.

General risks

LEGISLATIVE RISK
This is the risk that legislation governing super and pensions may change in the future. For example, the way super is taxed, how and when you can take your benefit or treatment for means testing by Centrelink. This may result in you paying more tax than you had initially planned, not being able to take your benefit exactly as and when you had planned, or other unanticipated consequences.

OPERATIONAL RISK
This is the risk of loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, people and systems, or from external events. These may result in the Trustee failing to properly administer and manage the Fund, your account, the investment options and the Fund’s investments. External events might include, for example, system failure, market closures, significant market movements, significant redemption or switching activity, actions taken by our external investment managers and other service providers, industrial disputes, terrorist acts, wars, or natural disasters and civil disturbances.

The Trustee has measures in place that are intended to mitigate both internal and external risks. However, the Trustee cannot guarantee that these kinds of occurrences will not interrupt normal operations.

LONGEVITY RISK
This risk is relevant to you if you are in receipt of a pension. This is the risk that your pension won’t be adequate to support your retirement lifestyle. For Flexi Pension members, it’s important to be aware that your annual pension payments are not guaranteed. To make sure your pension can last over your lifetime (or as long as possible) you should carefully monitor your lump-sum withdrawals and level of annual pension.

The level of investment returns allocated to your pension account will also affect how long your pension will last. Pension payments will stop when you no longer have enough money in your pension account to meet the next payment. In these circumstances, the remainder of your pension account will be redeemed and paid into your nominated financial institution account(s) and your pension account will be closed.

If you don’t monitor your lump-sum withdrawals and your level of annual pension payments carefully, your pension account may run out of money before you die. It’s important to remember that your annual pension payments are based on government rules that determine the minimum amount that must be received from your pension account each financial year. This is the case regardless of whether your pension investments have achieved positive or negative returns in a given year.

CYBER RISK
This is the risk of financial or data loss, business disruption, or damage to UniSuper’s reputation as a result of a threat or failure to protect the information or personal data stored within its informational technology systems and networks.
OTHER GENERAL RISKS
The fees and costs (including insurance premiums) associated with your membership may increase in the future. However, we’ll give you 30 days’ written notice in advance of any increases in fees and charges (except in the case of annual indexation of fees) payable to UniSuper (as opposed to third parties). There’s the possibility that a new fee may be introduced. There’s also the chance that the Trust Deed may be amended or that changes to the Fund (as permitted by law) may affect your rights and entitlements as a member. We’ll keep you informed of such changes, as required by law.

Investment risks that may affect your super or pension
Investment risk is the potential for your super or pension account to rise or fall as a result of how it’s invested. As a result, if you have a super account the amount of your final benefit when it comes time to withdraw it from the Fund may be less than the total contributions made into your account. In other words, your final benefit may be less than you need to achieve your desired lifestyle in retirement. Or if you have a pension, your pension account balance may reduce.

We offer a range of investment options that give you the flexibility to invest your super according to the level of investment risk you’re comfortable with. While each investment option involves some level of risk, some involve higher levels than others. As a general rule, investments that offer higher returns tend to be higher risk, while those that offer lower returns tend to be lower risk.

Risks relating to particular types of investments are set out below.

Investment risks
SPECIFIC INVESTMENT (OR SECURITY) RISK
The risk that a specific investment held in an investment option may experience negative returns and lose money, or may fail to perform in line with expectations.

INVESTMENT MANAGER RISK
The risk that UniSuper, or an external investment manager appointed by UniSuper to manage certain investments, may underperform the general market, or may fail to perform in line with expectations, for example due to their investment management style or management decisions.

MARKET RISK
The risk that a specific investment market (for example the share market or the fixed interest market), may not perform well and may diminish the value of the investments held in those markets. Factors such as interest rates and inflation, as well as government policy and economics, can all influence market risk.

COUNTRY RISK
The risk that investment options that hold securities from an individual country may not perform well as a result of economic or political pressures specific to that country and the investment options may lose money as a result.

CURRENCY RISK
The risk that the changing value of currency either in Australia or overseas may change the value of any overseas investment. For example, if the investment option contains investments denominated in US dollars and the Australian dollar rises against the US dollar, the value of those US investments may fall when calculated in Australian dollar terms.

UniSuper may from time to time hedge some or all of the Fund’s foreign currency exposures but will not necessarily do so at all times. Different currencies may be hedged to different extents (or possibly not at all).
Managing investment risk

While risk is an inevitable part of investing, it’s possible to manage investment risk and therefore moderate its impact on your investments. Two strategies for managing such risks are:

- Diversification—spreading your money across a number of different investments, rather than just a few or even a single investment, and
- Investing according to your timeframe—choosing investments that are expected to be best suited to the length of time you intend to hold those investments.

When it comes to deciding how you want your super or pension to be invested, UniSuper has a wide range of investment options to choose from. All of these options offer a diversified selection of investments, some within specific asset classes and some across a range of different asset classes. In addition, for super, we generally encourage you to take a long-term view. You should consider your individual circumstances when deciding how to manage investment risk. You may decide to seek professional financial advice to help assess your investment risk tolerance and approach.

CREDIT RISK
The risk that an organisation UniSuper deals with fails to meet its obligations and causes an investment option to incur a financial loss.

INFLATION RISK
The risk that inflation and/or interest rates may fluctuate and affect investment returns and the real value of your investment.

LIQUIDITY RISK
The risk that a particular asset cannot be easily converted into cash at a particular time, leading to a delay and resulting loss when the asset is eventually sold.

DERIVATIVES RISK
UniSuper and some of its external investment managers use derivatives to gain exposure to certain types of investments or to hedge risks, as considered appropriate.

Importantly, UniSuper doesn’t use derivatives to leverage the Fund’s assets. With derivatives, there’s a risk that the value of the derivative will fail to move in line with the value of the underlying asset, or that the obligation under the derivative contract held by another party won’t be honoured.

INVESTMENT OPTION RISK
The risk that during your membership, UniSuper may discontinue the investment option you’re invested in and require you to transfer to another option or make substantial changes to your chosen investment option. However, if this were to occur, you would receive advance notification and have an opportunity to switch to any of our other investment options available at that time. Similarly, UniSuper may change the default option that applies to members who don’t make a choice.
